

MISHAP IN AUTO TELLS HUSBAND WIFE'S SECRET

Injury to Beerbohm Tree's
Wife Reveals Scandal in London.

HURT WITH MR. WALLER.

Actor Had Forbidden Her to Meet Companion Except Upon Stage.

LONDON, Nov. 18.—An automobile accident, in which Mrs. Beerbohm Tree, wife of the famous actor-manager, and Lewis Waller, were injured, has just revealed the fact that Mr. Tree had exacted from his wife a promise that her association with Mr. Waller would be limited strictly to the time the ywere performing on the stage together.

Friends of the couple, knowing the intense jealousy of Tree and realizing his violent temper, have made powerful efforts to keep the news of the accident a secret without avail. What the consequences are to be forms the gossip in clubs and theatrical circles.

Mrs. Tree was so seriously injured that the truth quickly was learned. Both her arms were fractured, and it is feared that she may have sustained internal injuries. Mr. Waller was not so seriously hurt, sustaining only bruises and scratches, which will confine him to his rooms for a few days.

Woman's Identity Hidden

The accident occurred near Birmingham, and the story, as related here, is that Mr. Waller and Mrs. Tree, who were alone in the car, attempted to take a sharp curve at high speed and were upset into the ditch.

At first the identity of Mr. Waller's companion was denied and the theatre was informed that Mrs. Tree was indisposed and that her substitute would have to take her place. When the serious nature of her injuries were realized and it became imperative to telegraph for her husband's presence, it became known that it was the popular actress who was in the wrecked car.

Powerful influences have kept any mention of the matter from the English press, but the facts are widely known in the circles in which Mr. and Mrs. Tree live.

Mrs. Tree, who was Miss Maud Holt before she was married to Mr. Tree, is popularly known for her great wit and social charm. She is one of the most distinguished young women on the English stage, and has for years enjoyed entire to the drawing-rooms of the exclusive families in the West End. She is a brilliant conversationalist and her bright and witty sayings are of common quotation.

Mrs. Tree and Mr. Waller were well acquainted before she was married by Mr. Tree. It is said Mrs. Tree's injuries are such that she cannot hope to return to the stage.

MISS RICKER DYING ACCUSED LEDDY

Detectives Scour Country for Rejected Suitor Who Killed Her.

The entire detective force of Paterson is still searching for Harry Leddy, who killed Miss Mamie Ricker because she refused to marry him. One squad scoured the woods and mountains north of Paterson and returned with no traces of the murderer. Police men in plain clothes were equally unsuccessful in Paterson. Detective Lord was detailed to Long Island City, where Leddy and the Rickers formerly lived. Mrs. Leddy, mother of the slaver, lives at No. 36 Steinway avenue, Long Island City, but the murderer has not appeared there. Her home will be carefully watched.

An hour before she died Miss Ricker made this statement:

"Harry Leddy shot me on Nov. 16, 1906, at No. 54 East Fifth street, in the city of Paterson. I was in my own home. He said Harry Leddy aimed a revolver at me and shot me intentionally. 'I was going to the South with my brother, and because I would not stay in Paterson was the reason he shot me. He asked me to become his wife and I said no. Then he asked me to kiss him good-by, and I did. We shook hands, and then he pulled a revolver and pointed it at my face. He fired. I turned to run downstairs, and he fired again. That is all I know.' Leddy was last seen going in the direction of North Paterson. He was pursued as far as the Binghamton Railroad bridge and was lost in the darkness. The Paterson police believe that he will not be found alive."

OFFICE WRECKED BY WOMAN

Lawyer Spicer, Just Married, Says
Mrs. Manning Was Jealous.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 18.—Because Attorney George M. Spicer found his office in the Bixby Building at Long Beach wrecked he caused a warrant to issue against Mrs. Mabel Manning, a young widow, who he says is insanely jealous of him. Mrs. Spicer, a recent bride, has gone to her home in Salt Lake temporarily.

Deeds in the Spicer office had been broken holes punched in pictures and furniture, books torn and ink spilled over the debris, Spicer says. That Mrs. Manning confessed the act and that her attorney offered to settle for $500, Spicer says, ever since his marriage the woman earned had used every means to bring disaster to him because he has severed relations with her.

Mrs. Manning, who occupies sumptuous apartments in the Courtyard Block, says she will tell a different story in court.

A Finisht DECADE of SUCCESS

To Our Friends

Exactly ten years since we reopened the old Stewart Store for retail trade. Continued and cumulative progress has marked this business from the opening day. This success has inspired the entire reorganizing and reorganization of the Stewart Building, also the construction and equipment of the new Wanamaker Building. Combined they make the most elegant, complete and elaborate retailing plant in America—taking rank as a national institution for the public service.

We extend you a cordial invitation to visit and carefully inspect the entire premises. The collection of merchandise display, vast numbers of beautiful and interesting things. The historic and artistic exhibits are numerous and attractive. Every floor in each building will repay a visit.

Very Respectfully
John Wanamaker

Today's Announcements Have Unusual Interest

As our New York business enters the second decade of its history, we think we have a right to command the special attention of the entire Public of Greater New York and the suburban vicinage.

Today we invite you to the entire public portion of our New Wanamaker Building and to the completely rearranged old Stewart Building.

Our usual audience will find many changes, all of which are made in the interest of greatly improved public utility. The use of the carefully prepared Store Directories, which can be had at all the entrances, will greatly aid in finding the various stocks in their new places. They also indicate the several items of unusual interest. The following are worthy of special attention:

The Museum of the French Revolution

This is a collection of Relics, Documents, Prints, Paintings and Tableaux, formed by Mr. Rodman Wanamaker, during an extended period of investigation and research. Some of the objects are authentic originals, some are copies, some are newly-arranged illustrations. Combined they form a most instructing exhibit, that has vast interest for all intelligent people, and more especially for students in the higher schools, colleges and universities. The great appreciation shown to this collection in Philadelphia has inspired its presentation in New York.

Opening of the Wanamaker Music Hall

The final decorations of the Hall are now preparing in Paris. Nevertheless the beautiful proportions and present advanced conditions of the Hall fully warrant publicity. The splendid organ just completed by the Austin Organ Co., of Hartford, is most artistically voiced and has popular and classical qualities that will charm both professionals and public.

There will be Informal Recitals daily, 9:30 to 10:30, 11:30 to 12:30, 2 to 3, and 4 to 5. Organ music will alternate with performances on the Piano, and duets between pianos played by hand and with the ANGLES.

The New Wanamaker Art Galleries

These spacious galleries, now open on the Ninth floor of the Wanamaker Building, contain a very interesting group of some of the principal paintings from the Paris Salons of the present year, as well as a series of thirteen pictures by the great American painter of marines, Edward Moran, representing great chapters in American Naval History.

Opening of the New Wanamaker Restaurant

Sumptuous, spacious, comfortable to a degree, in keeping with the scale on which the New Wanamaker is planned throughout. It is on the Ninth floor of the Wanamaker Building, and commands a superb view of the city and surrounding country. There is provision for seating over eight hundred persons, the service is of the highest order, the cuisine is excellent, appetizing and delicious, and the charges are distinctly moderate. The modern kitchen, scientific in every detail, will fascinate housekeepers and will be open for inspection, except during the height of the luncheon period.

The New Toy Store Is Ready

"Toysland, this bright, merry girl-and-boy-land," fills the Fourth avenue end of the Basement of BOTH buildings—Two blocks in length, and as wide as the world of Make-Believe. Filled with EVERYTHING that the minds of little folks can imagine or their hearts crave for play-time enjoyment.

No need to tell you the details you know—every child knows what to expect when the Wanamaker Toy Store sends out its invitation. Welcome to parents and the children.
